Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 10 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly dry with warm sunny spells, after a cloudy start.

Today:
A rather cloudy morning with some patchy drizzle possible across the Pennines. Cloud breaking up in the afternoon to allow spells of warm sunshine to develop, although it will be a bit breezy, especially over higher ground. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud increasing across the region overnight with patchy light rain and drizzle spreading into western parts around dawn. Brisk southwesterly winds. Minimum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Friday:
A cloudy and breezy morning with outbreaks of rain and drizzle, mainly in the west. Cloud and rain clearing southwards in the early afternoon, allowing sunny spells to develop. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Dry over the weekend with light winds and plenty of warm sunshine, although isolated fog patches are possible around dawn. Cloudier Monday with some patchy rain and drizzle on hills.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.